SECOND EDITION

A NEW AND IMPORTANT BOOK

BY

JOHN DEWEY

Professor of Pedagogy in the University of Chicago

The educational situation has nowhere been so clearly stated nor so graphically illustrated as in the odd hundred pages of Professor JOHN DEWEY's new book. The problem of elementary education is one that forces itself not only on teachers and school boards, but is felt with continuously growing anxiety by the parents. The "fads and frills" of the Public School—Nature Study, Manual Training, Cooking, and Sewing—remain despite their critics, but they cannot be assimilated. Professor DEWEY gives a most luminous statement of the meaning of these branches for the school and for life. It has been his good fortune to have stepped out of the field of theoretical pedagogy and to stand upon the successful results of three years' experimentation in the Elementary School of the University of Chicago. This school, instituted as a laboratory of the Pedagogical Department, has been the subject of innumerable inquiries, and many unintelligent criticisms. The ideas behind it and the methods of applying them are presented here in a style neither abstruse nor technical. Being originally lectures delivered before a popular audience, and reaching publication as a result of the interest excited there, the public has the guarantee of their interest and comprehensibility for all who feel the responsibility of bringing the meaning of life home to the child.
